Zocalo Hires Kathleen Bole as Development Manager

Denver (November 27, 2017) – Zocalo Community Development is pleased to announce Kathleen Bole has joined the company as a Development Manager. Bole previously contributed to the development of mixed-income residential and mixed-use projects as a Project Manager with Brinshore Development, LLC and as a Development Manager with Cohen Esrey, both in Kansas City.

“This is an exciting time for Zocalo as we grow our team and prepare for new projects in the year ahead,” said David Zucker, Principal and CEO of Zocalo. “At the heart of our work is a spirit of connection and community. We are impressed with Kathleen’s demonstrated commitment to Zocalo’s mission and are lucky to have her expertise.”

In her role as Development Manager, Bole is responsible for supporting the Zocalo team in all aspects of the development process, predominantly executing on affordable and mixed-income residential projects. She also manages the day-to-day development process and development team to ensure that project goals and schedules are met and that a project’s development plan is successfully executed.

“Cities and urban environments are my passion and I’ve followed the development of neighborhoods my whole life, said Bole. “I’m looking forward to this opportunity to align my interest in city planning, affordable housing and sustainability with Zocalo’s goal of doing good for a community.”

Bole is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania where she received a Master of City Planning degree and was the 2013 recipient of the Brian C. West Award for Excellence in Real Estate Development and Urban Design. During her graduate studies, Bole served as a 2012 Mayoral Fellow with the City of Chicago. She received a Bachelor of Arts in Architectural Studies from the University of Kansas and is a member of the Urban Land Institute.
