Zocalo Hires Torrance Delgado as Assistant Project Manager

Denver (September 24, 2018) – Zocalo Community Development is pleased to announce Torrance Delgado, MBA has joined the company as Assistant Project Manager. Delgado brings a demonstrated history of leadership in the construction and engineering industry, having previously worked as an asset manager for Denver International Airport and lead project engineer for Kiewit-Turner Venture.

“We are excited to welcome Torrance to the Zocalo family and grow our expertise within the construction project management team,” said Clark Atkinson, LEEP AP and Chief Development Officer for Zocalo. “His strong skills in communication, knowledge of the building process and ability to problem-solve will help us deliver impactful results for Zocalo’s community-based projects.”

In his role as Assistant Project Manager, Delgado is responsible for organizationally planning, executing and supporting activities leading to successful project completion.

“I was immediately attracted to Zocalo due to the exceptional caliber of people that make up the company,” said Torrance Delgado. “It is easy to recognize their passion and hard work, and I am very grateful for the opportunity to become a member of this high-performing team that is building better communities.”

Delgado is a graduate of Louisiana State University where he received a Masters in Business Administration with a Specialization in Entrepreneurship and Family Enterprise. He received a Bachelor of Science in Construction Management from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.
